

Nerves

Are the Messengers of Pain—the Telegraph System of the human body.
Nerves extend from the brain to every part of the body and reach every organ.
Nerves are like fire—good servants but hard masters.
Nerves are fed by the blood and are therefore like it in character.
Nerves will be weak and exhausted if the blood is thin, pale and impure.
Nerves will surely be strong and steady if the blood is rich, red and vigorous.
Nerves and a true friend in Hood's Sarsaparilla because it makes rich, red blood.
Nerves do their work naturally and well—the brain is unclouded, there are no neuritic pains, appetite and digestion are good, when you take

Bread is higher but wages are not.

Reductions in wages are announced at mills in various parts of the country, within the past week or two. At the same time the consumers of the products of these mills are being compelled to pay increased prices. This may be prosperity, but it is not of the general kind. It is entirely too "special."

Hon. W. J. Bryan says: "If the Republicans desire to claim the credit for the high price of wheat, they must assume responsibility for the famine in India. Will any Republican convention 'point with pride' to the famine as evidence that the Republican party is redeeming its campaign pledges? Will the Republican party pledge itself to use its best efforts to continue the famine abroad, as it pledged itself last year to promote international bimetalism?"

This judicial district has, in the person of Judge Kinner, the peer, if not the superior of any in the State. This mountain section, which has long been frowned upon by the other parts of our State, should have pride enough to want to keep on its judicial bench a man who stands alongside the best Circuit Judges in Kentucky. We have faith enough in the good citizenship of our district to believe that Judge Kinner will get the indorsement he deserves—a reelection by a complimentary majority.

A Great Walnut Tree.

A massive curled walnut tree, probably the largest in Eastern Kentucky or Southwestern Virginia, was sold on Elk Horn creek, Letcher county, Ky., Saturday to an eastern syndicate, they paying $400 for it. The tree, although buried far back in the wilds of Cumberland mountain, where civilization is hardly known, will be split into small pieces and then be handled overland through Pound Gap to Norton and shipped to Cincinnati, where it will be manufactured into the finest furniture.

The tree in question is nearly 16 feet in circumference and upward of 60 feet to the first limb. It is estimated that it will cost them more than $1,000 to get it to Norton, Va., the nearest railroad, but that it will make $15,000 worth of furniture.

OLD PEOPLE.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels adding strength and giving tone to the organs thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at A. M. Hughes Drug Store.

For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism, I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." The 25 and 50 cent size for sale by A. M. Hughes.

OBITUARY.

To the memory of Edmund M. Smith, who departed this life at his home at Catalpa, Ky., Sept. 2, 1897, at the ripe old age of 77 years. He was a most excellent citizen, a pillar for the church and gave largely to the church during his life. His home was always open to the preacher; he was kind and affectionate to his wife and family; he loved them and they loved him; he was loved and respected by all his neighbors; if he had any enemies I never knew them; he was a father to the orphan and a friend to the poor; his hospitality toward all who entered his house was beyond measure; his home was open to the weary traveler both night and day; his life was marked with pleasantness and even temper; he was noted for truth and his word among those who knew him was as good as his bond; he was a plain man with no deceptions; he enjoyed life in its fullest sense; his great pleasure was to have his children, grandchildren and friends all his home; he did not want to be a millionaire here, but was content with an ample supply of the good things of this life, which he always had in abundance, and to spare to others whom he found in need. He was of great benefit to the laboring classes, many of whom received employment that enabled them to get through hard struggles. He was a Christian of the purest type; a man who made no pharisaical pretensions but who lived religious every day. He will be missed by the church, missed by his wife and children, missed by his neighbors and friends, missed by the stranger, by the poor, and by the widows and orphans. Now his place is vacant and cannot be filled; his work is finished; his peace is completed; his joys are more than human mind can conceive; more than mortal pen can describe. J. F. HATTEN.

One of Two Ways

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

Chief Cause

Unhealthy urine from an unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored to much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage often by mistake, attributed to a female weakness or womb troubles of some sort. The error is easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty-four hours; a sediment of settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need medicine you should have the best. At drug stores fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention the BIG SANDY NEWS and send your full postoffice address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Hinghamton, N.Y.
